What our MEd graduate says:

Puan Naina bt. Abdul Karim, a lecturer at the School of Allied Health Science, Nilai University enrolled at AeU to pursue the Master of Education (MEd) programme in January, 2011. She is a Chairman's Award winner and an MEd graduate of 2014.

Naina says, "Like many adult learners, I had the mammoth task of having to manage my time between family, work and studying at AeU. However, with the support of staff and academic facilitators who challenged me to think and reflect on my role as an educator, I was encouraged to push on. Support of my family also played a significant role in completing the programme as a part-time student."

"The flexibility of the programme enabled me to schedule my time in meeting deadlines, reading the learning materials and discussing online. The learning materials are interesting, friendly and easy to understand which made my learning easier. Completing the programme has enhanced my confidence as a health science educator. I have improved the teaching and learning experience of students at my university by applying the principles and concepts gleaned from various courses," she adds.

"My advice to prospective students is to prioritise and manage their time effectively as going back to university is a serious commitment. As a believer in lifelong learning, I plan to continue my education in doctoral programme in the future," she concludes.
