

Assoc Prof Dr Sheila Cheng: 'AeU's International Foundation Programme is a broad-based pre-university programme for high school-leavers to pursue their tertiary education.

Your passport to tertiary studies

ARE you contemplating your future as your high school days have just finished? There are basically two types of people in the world – active and passive. Only 10% are proactive, and although they are very much in the minority, they are the movers and shakers in every area.

Today, let Asia e University (AeU) help you to be this 10% vital minority, to manage your life in your own hands, as well as to make things happen, by engaging yourself in the International Foundation Programme (IFP).

The IFP is specially designed to equip high school graduates like you with fundamental academic knowledge, soft skills and self esteem to meet the rigorous demands of university life.

In other words, it is a passport for you to enter tertiary education which in turn helps you to open your thinking horizon to the world.

The IFP not only offers students an internationally recognised academic qualification, but also worldwide universities pathway choices and international alumni networking.

Besides, the IFP exposes you to an international gold standard, as the curriculum is designed by the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE), an independent college of University of London, ranked top three in the University Review of UK universities' list.

An award from the University of London is a mark of excellence, respected by employers and universities worldwide.

According to School of Foundation Studies (SFS) head Assoc Prof Dr Sheila Cheng Chuen, "The IFP, adopted the curriculum of International Foundation Programme of the University of London, is a broad-based pre-university programme for high school-leavers to pursue their tertiary education.

"A flexible mode of studies (both full-time and part-time) are available for students to fit into their lifestyles and support their personal goals."

AeU, being a recognised teaching centre of the University of London, is committed to develop excellence in teaching and provide personalised support to students and administrative processes.

Moreover, the IFP is approved by the Ministry of Education, Malaysia and accredited by the Malaysian Qualifications Agency (MQA) as a Foundation Programme.

The two-semester programme has been tailor-made for high school graduates to leap frog into a rewarding academic future, blended with fun and flexibility.
